In order to pay for school and continue being active in the community, I enlisted in the Texas Army National Guard as a Medic. We made pizza together, watched Shrek on their cozy couch together, and went fishing on Sunday together. Even though I was probably only ten at the time, I wanted to find a way to help kids like me. Bird, human, human, bird. I was the king of bowling, and Dawn was the queen of tennis. In my hometown of New Haven, Connecticut, where normality was well, the norm, I tried to be a typical student absolutely, perfectly normal. In the case of surfing, the salty water, weightlessness of bobbing over the waves, and fresh air could cater to senses. For example, if you lost a friend due to an argument, you can analyze the positions from both sides, evaluate your decisions, and identify why you were wrong. Luckily, I board my train with seconds to spare, and without being turned into a pancake always a plus. Alternatively, a more relaxed way to address this prompt is using an informal event or realization, which would allow you to show more personality and creativity. As I studied Chinese at my school, I marveled how if just one stroke was missing from a character, the meaning is lost. Which is home? Unsettled, I turn to my ever-present book for comfort. That night when my brother was gone I went to a local store and bought a piece of chocolate taffy, his favorite. I thought my parents were superheroes; surely they would be able to make well again. All I knew was that I felt sick, and I was waiting for my mom to give me something to make it better. But I digress. I speak both English and Chinese: Chinese is for math, science, and process, but I prefer English for art, emotion, and description. I have only scratched the surface in this ever evolving field but know that the technological potential is limitless. This course revealed a direct correlation between what I had studied in the classroom with the real world. Thanks to this experience, I know now better than ever that State University is my future, because through it I seek another, permanent, opportunity to follow my passion for science and engineering. Twenty minutes have passed when the door abruptly opens.
